Teaching & Leadership

Welcome to the Research & Development Library Monthly newsletter

The Turner Library is introducing a monthly Newsletter at the end of every month to keep our members up to date with new journals, books and news. The Newsletter will include the contents pages of all new journals received and a list of all new books that are available in the library. You will also find details and blurb of our feature book of the month.

Our aim is to ensure that all of our members are benefitting from everything we have to offer.

If there is anything else you would like to see featured in our newsletter please send us your ideas to:

EYE – Early Years Educator (October 2016)

Contents:

Editorial

1. Change is all around, let's embrace it

As the Department for Education sweeps in the next brace of ministers, we are embracing our own change with our fresh new look.

2. Neil Leitch

In an ideal world, government policy-making would be open and transparent and we would have a clear understanding of how things work.

3. Jan Dubiel

The sudden rediscovery by government of the importance of early years provision for social mobility is welcome, but no surprise.

4. Kym Scott

How do we provide the right conditions to support children in becoming self-regulating learners who will seek out challenges?

News

5. Destined for disadvantage

The government is consulting on a fairer funding formula – but what impact will it have on the sector?

Professional

6. Early Years PISA testing

Using test scores to drive education policy is controversial, and we should be concerned at the prospect of cross-national early years assessments.

7. We are all partners when a child communicates

Part two of our look at communication and language problems.

8. Teachers have the chance to make a lasting impact

Managers detail exactly why they value staff members who achieve teacher status

9. What do we really know about maths?

We need to know how young children learn key concepts and what we can do to support children's maths learning.

10. Recognising problems with spelling and reading

How do you spot a child in your setting who might have dyslexia?

11. Supporting children in multi-lingual settings

Following on from last month's article, we explore views on culture and identity, and how first language can define friendship groups.

12. We need more males in the Early Years workforce

What would happen if men made up a bigger part of the sector?

13. How residential mobility affects children

We are getting quite good at trying to spot how a child's home and social life affect them, but what impact do house moves have?

Practical Supplement

14. Paediatric first aid

New first aid certificate requirements will benefit the sector as greater numbers of practitioners receive life-saving training.

16. A natural place to learn

Having a garden is a great way of nourishing health, wellbeing, and learning.

17. Ideas and innovation

How do we encourage children to be innovators, and to accept that set-backs are part of the learning process?

18. Such simple pleasures

Exploring the health benefits of cognitive development to be gained through playing with mud.

19. World space week is go!

Celebrate all things cosmic by using the spheres of the universe as starting points for activities and exercise.

20. Spinning round to the top of the class

Children manipulating toys and other objects are absorbing information about how the world works, and developing their motor skills at the same time.

EYE FOCUS: Development Maps

Mapping young children's development: Are we going on the right path?

Di Chilvers returns to the fundamentals of assessment for learning, keeping the child visible in the process and getting back to making informed decisions about the children's progress.

Book Bugs

Children from the Royal Mile Nursery in Edinburgh take a look at the picture books that have made it onto the shortlist for the first Bookbug Picture Book Prize.

The winner will be chosen by children across Scotland.

The award, run by the Scottish Book Trust, celebrates the most popular picture books by Scottish authors and illustrators.

The three shortlisted books are: There's a Bear on My Chair by Ross Collins (Nosy Crow); Hare and Tortoise: The Favourite Aesop's Fable by Alison Murray (Orchard Books); and Shark in the Park on a Windy Day by Nick Sharratt (Random House).

A free copy of each will be given to every Primary 1 child during Book Week Scotland (21-27 November).

The winner will be announced on 12 January 2017. To register to vote, visit <http://bit.ly/2ct57c5>

Penguinpig

Puppets are being used to tackle the complex message of internet safety in an original approach to children's theatre.

Based on a picture book, the tale follows Pheobe, who reads about an exciting creature called a Penguinpig online. She sets off alone to the zoo to search for the adorable creature. But what will she find inside?

Designed for children aged three to eight, Penguinpig is one of the more than 160 events at the Brighton Digital Festival, which runs until the end of the month. It is the UK's largest celebration of digital culture.

Performances of Penguinpig are on Saturday 24 September at 11am and 2pm. The show is 45 minutes, followed by a Q&A with the actors. Tickets are free but should be booked in advance.
